

The domed ceiling is one of the outstanding features of the dining hall

All eyes on The Eastern Eye

This elegant Georgian hall is full of Eastern promise

You'll find the interior of this elegant, premier Bath restaurant set in one of the most stunning high-ceilinged Georgian buildings, complete with magnificent three glass domes above. It's definitely a place to visit for the décor and ambience alone – the perfect accompaniment to the cuisine, which is of an outstanding quality, and reasonably priced too. And the team of staff at The Eastern Eye always make you feel welcome – the efficient, professional and friendly service is an excellent harbinger of the fresh, aromatic food that is to come.

Over the years, managing director Mr A H Choudhury and his Brother Mr S Choudhury have been on the receiving end of a whole host of awards and accolades for their impressive restaurant, from Les Routiers recognition to an AA rosette, with lots of glowing reviews along the way.

"This cavernous Georgian hall makes an extraordinary setting, specialising in Bengali and northern Indian cuisine, resulting in crisp, fresh cooking and good ingredients," wrote The Times. And their most recent accolade comes courtesy of the British Curry Awards 2005 – they're deservedly proud to have been voted among the top five eateries in the south west region, and among the top 30 in the whole of the UK.

The Mahal of exquisite Indian cuisine, The Eastern Eye, internationally renowned for its excellence, is definitely an experience not to be missed. ■

The team at The Eastern Eye always make you feel welcome

Sample menu

Starter

Chicken chandan – lightly spiced pieces of spring chicken, cooked in a tandoori oven

Main

Lamb sula – spiced lamb, marinated in yoghurt with herbs and barbecued in a tandoori oven

King prawn masala Balti

Lamb or chicken tikka nowabdar – very mild, cooked in a roasted cashew nuts butter sauce

Lamb or chicken mon pasand – slightly hot, cooked in a spiced masala sauce

Prices

Starter from £2.70, tandoori from £6.90, balti from £6.80

Drinks

Well-chosen wines, bottled beers, soft and hot drinks

Open

Daily 12noon–2.30pm and 6–11.30pm

The Eastern Eye
8a Quiet Street, Bath
tel: 01225 422323/466401
email: info@easterneye.com
www.easterneye.com